(CONT. from back page) he professed perpetual vows as a member of the Congregation of the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary in August of last year, and was ordained a deacon November 24. He then devoted himself to finishing his theological research paper and studying for his comprehensive exams, which he passed March 4. Bro. Pat arrived at SS. Peter and Paul on March 7 to begin the deacon internship program which he is now fulfilling among us. On May 10, he will graduate from the Washington Theological Union with a Master's Degree in Theology. We are thrilled that on June 12 Bishop Clark will ordain him a Sacred Hearts Father right here--the first ordination in the history of SS. Peter and Paul Church. We pray he will then serve here as a priest!

Patrick Francis Fanning, who together with his parents and his religious community, is hereby inviting us all to his priestly ordination, was born August 16, 1954 in New York City, third of six children born to Patrick and Mary Fanning of Ramsey, in northern New Jersey. Patrick attended parochial grammar and public high school in his home town, graduating in 1972. From an early age he thought of the priesthood and indicated that as his main interest to his high school guidance counselor. However he entered Providence Dominican College for two years and in 1970 graduated from Ramapo State College in Mahwah, N.J. with a B. S. in Business Administration. Still, in his senior year, at a friend's suggestion he took part in a vocations retreat at Sacred Hearts Retreat House in Wareham, Mass. After prayer, reflection and much interviewing and testing, he and the community made up their mind. Patrick entered our novitiate in Washington, DC two weeks after college graduation in 1976. Fr. Heffron was his novice master there and during three-months in Texas. He
